WASHINGTON.

WHAT CONGRESS IS DOING.

PASSAGE OF A MISSISSIPPI RIVER IMPROVEMENT BILL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The House of Representatives has just passed a bill to create a commission to survey and report on necessary improvements in the Mississippi river, by a vote of 135 to 73. The bill appropriates $250,000. The House is now considering the army bill.

The Senate is wasting another day on the Edmund's constitutional amendment resolution.

CAUCUS OF REPUBLICAN SENATORS.

The Republican Senators met in caucus this morning, and after having informally discussed the prominent measures which are to come up during the remainder of the session, chose a committee to decide the order in which they shall be brought up for consideration.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Senate Committee on Territories voted today to report a bill permitting the location of certain railroad land warrants in the Indian territory. The representatives of the tribes to which this territory was granted protest against this.

The Army Board have agreed to change the present uniform facings and trimmings as follows: Infantry, from blue to white; cavalry, from yellow to orange; and artillery, from red to crimson.

THE JURORS' TEST OATH.

The Democrats are likely to be mistaken if they suppose the Republicans are going to make factious opposition to the repealing of the jurors' test oath. There will be opposition in the House to the attempt to legislate upon appropriation bills, but there will be no such opposition to the merits of the repeal as will be likely to result in an extra session. Many of the Democrats are urging the repeal in the hope that the opposition to it will be so great that the Republicans will force an extra session. The Republicans will not do this. If there is to be an extra session the Democrats will be made responsible for it.

THE POTTER COMMITTEE AT WORK AGAIN.

After wasting two hours the Potter Committee assembled, when Gen. Sheldon, one of the Louisiana electors, made a statement in regard to the signing of the Electoral certificates. He knew nothing about the forgery, if there was any.

REPUBLICAN EFFORT TO AVOID AN EXTRA SESSION.

Republican Senators in their caucus today appointed a select committee to take charge of the order of business, to facilitate pending measures and appropriations, and to avoid an extra session. Respecting the repeal of the test oath the Republicans will not make an issue sufficient to obstruct legislation, not regarding the question as of vital importance. In order to force an extra session the Democrats will therefore have to resort to other means.

A STRONG BID FOR SOUTHERN SUPPORT.

Mr. Tilden's friends seem to be watching the growing differences between the Northern and Southern Democrats, and are quietly circulating a statement that he is in favor of a reasonable appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi levees and Southern rivers and harbors, but is strongly opposed to paying the war claims of Southern loyalists.

THE LONG SESSION WHICH CARRIED THROUGH THE EDMUNDS RESOLUTIONS.

The Senate spent from 1 o'clock to 11 on Mr. Edmunds's resolutions, and the Republicans, having a good working majority throughout, finally forced a vote. The Democrats tried from the first to kill time, and hoped to tire the other side out. There was nothing very striking about the debate till toward evening, when Mr. Edmunds stirred up the Democrats by showing that no state controlled by their party ever ratified any of the amendments. The most interesting feature of the contest was the virtual claim by Mr. Garland that the Southern states had never ratified amendments except as it was done under duress. He was, however, so extreme as to carry out four Senators with him, namely, Messrs. Beck, Harris, McDonald and Voorhees. The resolutions were passed by a strict party vote.

THE BOSTON SUB-COMMITTEE.

Ex-Governor Boutwell Declines.—General Banks to have the Marshalship.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Governor Boutwell having declined the appointment of sub-treasurer, there are several other candidates being urged. Governor Claflin is still pressing Magee, but there is very little prospect of his getting it.

The attorney General has informed General Banks that the president has decided to give him the marshalship. The present incumbent's commission expires in March next. Banks says he prefers this position to a foreign appointment.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Theatre Closed.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Drury Lane Theatre is closed, the actors striking against a reduction of wages.

DISEASED CATTLE DISCOVERED.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The slaughter of cattle, brought by the steamer Ontario, at the abattoir in Liverpool, under the supervision of eminent veterinary authority specially familiar with pleuro-pneumonia, disclosed the fact that several other cattle besides those previously detected had suffered from pleuro-pneumonia, and the disease was of a very pronounced contagious type. The examiner has returned to London to report to the veterinary department of the Privy Council.

THE BOSTON SHIPMENT.

The consignment of cattle by steamer Iberian, which arrived from Boston, awaits inspection in quarantine. In the present uncertainty few or no contracts are being entered into. The trade are trying to arrange for the slaughter of cattle at the point of debarkation. Strong representations will made to the Mersey Docks and Harbor Board to facilitate this. The ten days' grace allowed by the orders in council are said to be sufficient for the trade requirements, and full guarantees will thus be provided against infection without prohibiting the importation of cattle. Near the north docks of Liverpool there is ample room to provide an abattoir for the slaughter of cattle on landing.

THE PLAGUE.

RUSSIAN CORDON INEFFICIENT.

Effect on the Business of America.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Telegraph says four more fatal cases of plague are reported at Selitereno.

The correspondent is personally cognizant of two successful evasions of the military cordon, which is very inefficient.

Throughout Russia, municipal, provincial and other sanitary committees are being organized to promote cleanliness among the poorer classes, especially in Moscow and St. Petersburg.

MALTA, Feb. 5.—The authorities have decided to impose a twenty-one days quarantine on vessels arriving from Russian ports in the Black Sea and the Sea of Azof.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—There was much discussion today on the Produce Exchange and in financial circles as to the effect likely to be produced on the business interests of this country by the ravages of the plague in Southern Russia. The establishment of a military cordon around the infected district, and the measures being taken by other European powers for the prevention of the spread of the disease was spoken of as laying an embargo on the export of Russian grain and other products. The dread of the plague in the infected districts was also thought likely to prevent the sowing of seed for a future crop. The situation is being thoroughly canvassed, and the opinion on 'Change seems general that from the troubles of Russian farmers and peasants will spring an extraordinary European demand for the cereals of the United States and a brisk and profitable business in their transportation from the west to the seaboard and to Europe.

Foundered at Sea.

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—There has been general inquiry made at the Navy Yard here for confirmation of the rumor that the United States steamer Richmond, which sailed from Brooklyn about three weeks since, had foundered at sea. Most of the crew were shipped from this vicinity. The rumor cannot be authenticated in any way.

Physician Hanged by a Mob.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ill., Feb. 5.—On Monday Dr. Charles McAuliffe and James Havner, uncle of the doctor had a dispute, ending in Havner being killed. On Tuesday night a constable started with the doctor for Carrollton Jail, but when half a mile from town a mob overpowered the constable, seized the doctor and hanged him.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY.

I had not been home many hours, the female members of the family had not exclaimed more than a thousand times, "Why, Fred, how you've changed! I hardly know you!" my younger brother had only just succeeded in smashing my first cane, when word was brought that, "Your father would like to see you in the study, Mr. Fred."

"Ah, Fred, my boy, sit down and tell me how you are getting on at Harvard."

"O, first-rate! I played foot-ball all the fall, am training this winter for the crew, and think of base ball in the spring."

"Yes, yes; but, Fred, how about the Greek and Latin?"

"O, they're all right; I'm in the advanced sections in both studies."

"I am very glad to hear it, for Fred, I've been a little worried by two notices I received from the college, something about your doing poorly in Greek and Latin examinations."

"Did you really get such letters, father? That's immense! Why, they're Deturs!"

"Eh?"

"Why, Deturs, gifts from the college. From the Latin, do, dare, dedi, detum, to give. The college gives them only to the twenty best scholars in the class. It's a great honor to get one; follows that have Deturs hang them up in frames. You hardly ever get more than one; my having two is superb, equal to getting a double first at Oxford."

"Indeed! I always thought you were bright, Fred; but what does it mean by saying if you don't do better you will have to sever your connection with the college?"

"Pooh! That's nothing, father, a mere form; relic of an old custom. You see, about a hundred years ago the twenty best men of the class used to contend in an examination for the first place. The nineteen who didn't win were told that they might go away into the country, that is, sever their connection with the college, for a while, study up and try their fate again. The custom has died out, but the notices remain, and now they are sent round to show that you are in the first twenty of your class. A great honor to get one, I assure you."

"I am glad of it; you have taken quite a load off my mind, for I feared that you were in danger of dismissal. Well, Fred, I won't detain you longer, your sisters are dying to know all about college; but before you go here's a specimen of specie payments from me as a Detur for your work in Latin and Greek."—[Harvard Crimson.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

JANUARY SESSION AT PROVIDENCE.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 5.

SENATE.

Mr. Tobey, of Providence, presented the petition of the Providence Nursery for change of name. Referred to the committee on education.

Mr. Tobey called up the House act amending chapter 229 of the General Statutes, "Of offences against the Public Peace and Property," defining the liability of towns and cities for property destroyed and injured in times of riot. The act provides that wherever any property of the value of $50 or more shall be destroyed or injured to that amount by any persons to the number of twelve or more unlawfully and riotously assembled, the town or city where said property is located shall be liable to indemnify the owner to the amount of three-fourths of the value of the property destroyed or injured, to be recovered in an action of the case in any court proper to try the same.

The act was recommitted to the judiciary committee for further examination.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Watson presented the petition of Benj. Hall and others, for changes in the law regarding dogs. Referred to special committee on this subject.

Mr. Seabury introduced an Act amending Chapter 81 of the General Statutes, "Of Birds," changing the date for quail from Oct. 15 to Nov. 1. Referred to the judiciary committee.

Mr. Peckham, from the committee on fisheries, returned the petitions, &c., relative to Quicksand and Juniper Pond and Little Compton. Petitioners given leave to withdraw.

Mr. Davis presented the petition of Emily F. Pratt and 17 others of Pawtucket for woman suffrage, and Mr. Chas. E. Carpenter presented the petition of Sarah Carey and 105 others for woman suffrage. Referred joint special committee on that subject.

PERSONALS.

.....John B. Gough is lecturing at the Crystal Palace, London.

.....Ex-Governor Boutwell has refused the Boston sub-treasurership.

.....The late Prince Henry of Holland left an estate of at least $11,000,000.

.....W. M. Hunt got $30,000 for his wall-paintings in the new capitol at Albany.

.....President Hayes lives more economically than any of the former Presidents.

.....Clark Nichols, the oldest conductor on the Providence & Stonington Railroad, has just died at Waterford, Conn.

.....The Princess Louise, following her mother's example, pays a bounty of £1 apiece for triplets born in the Dominion.

.....Governor Hampton is now so far from improving in health that he has been forced to abandon his proposed trip to Florida.

.....Charles L. Flint of Boston has given the prevention of cruelty to animals society $1000 in the name of Mrs. Mary A. Keith, his dead sister.

.....Among the passengers by the steamer City of Berlin, at New York from Liverpool, were J. B. Herreshoff and N. G. Herreshoff, of Bristol.

.....Mr. Delancy Kane will not run the Tally-Ho next spring, but another member of the Coaching Club intends to become an amateur Jehu. It is said that Mr. Kane, as well as Mr. Lorillard, will sail for Europe early in the spring.

.....Monsieur and Madame Maximo Outrey gave a brilliant party at the French Legation, in Washington last week. Their residence is most admirably adapted for entertaining; the many apartments opening one into another, on the same floor, and most tastefully arranged.

.....Rev. David S. Sutphen, pastor of the New Utrecht (L. I.) Reformed Church, became suddenly insane Tuesday night and threatened to kill his wife. He then proceeded to the residence of his physician and assaulted him, when, after a desperate struggle, he was subdued, and will be sent to the lunatic asylum.

.....The "Spurgeon Bazaar", in London, has closed with a receipt of about $32,000. The movement, while professedly started to compliment Mr. Spurgeon, has resulted in the securing of a permanent source of comfort and happiness to several aged and deserving people. Mr. Spurgeon declines to accept a penny and the funds will be invested for the benefit of those needing help.

.....The elderly King of Holland delivered this somewhat enthusiastic address of welcome to his young wife when they first arrived at Dutch territory the other day: "I am delighted to be able to welcome your majesty on the soil of the Netherlands. Your majesty may be proud of the reception with which you have met. As King of Holland, I am deeply moved. Your majesty may rest assured that no queen on earth is at this moment richer than you are in love, in honors, and in attachment from a famous, honorable and faithful people. Long live the Queen of Holland!"

.....Senator Christiancy says that his health began to fail several months ago, and that the President, being informed of his wish to seek a dryer and more bracing climate, offered him his choice of three missions—Berlin, Peru and Central America. The Berlin climate and salary did not suit him so he has chosen Peru, which has agreeable temperatures and does not call for so much expenditure as does a European country. The Senator thinks that at Elmo he can live comfortably and save two or three thousand dollars a year out of his salary of $10,000.

In a letter which Mr. Cyrus W. Field has just received from John Bright, of England, the latter says:

"A country may have Democratic institutions, its government may be Republican and based on a wide suffrage, and yet there may be no freedom to men for that which is the source of life and comfort. If a man's labor is not free, if its exchange is not free, the man is not free. And whether the law which enacts this restriction be the offspring of Republican or autocratic government and power, it is equally evil and to be condemned and withstood by all who love freedom and understand what it is. Nations learn slowly—but they do learn—and therefore I do not doubt that the time will come when trade will be as free as the winds, and when freedom of industry will do much to put down great armies and the peril and suffering of war."

MRS. SENATOR BRUCE.

Ever since the colored Senator from Mississippi, Mr. Bruce, brought his bride to the capital, Washington society has directed a curious gaze upon Mrs. Senator Bruce and wondered what part she would take in the social life here. There was no inconsiderable fear in some quarters that a grave social question had arisen, which would not only create much unpleasantness but might bring out the "color line" in an awkward relief. The social rank of a United States Senator is not to be disregarded; hence the position occupied by Mrs. Bruce was a delicate one that called for consummate tact in recognizing it. Two months have passed, and yet there is not a ripple upon the social current. The apprehensions of well-meaning persons have disappeared, and yet Mrs. Bruce has been received as a member of Washington society, and her bearing emphatically approved thereby. This result has been largely brought about by the level-headedness of the colored Senator himself. Speaking incidentally of this matter to your correspondent yesterday he showed how easily was his life made clear of social entanglements. Said he:—"The social question has never been a matter of concern to me since I was elected to the Senate. When I came here I made up my mind to let the society question adjust itself without any of my intervention. I have never attempted to force my way into society, and in letting things take their natural course I have never had a particle of trouble. I believe that it is only the one who seeks trouble from the 'color line' that finds it; and, dismissing all ideas on the race question from my mind, I find my social life passes smoothly and pleasantly." The Senator's good sense in the matter having long been known by his colleagues, even when he was a bachelor, his card basket was filled with as many cards of invitation possibly as any distinguished person here. When Mrs. Bruce took up her residence here the first person to pay her social respects to the bride was the wife of the President. She was so much pleased with Mrs. Bruce's lady-like bearing that she repeated her visit, and then soon followed nearly all of the Senators' and a large number of members' wives. Of course, the Cabinet ladies were not behindhand in their respects, and, as is the custom here, after the wife of the Secretary of State had by calling formally inducted Mrs. Bruce into Washington society, visits became general—so much so in fact that time has not allowed of their being repaid. Every one who has called at Senator Bruce's residence, at No. 909 M street, where he has recently removed from College Hill, speaks in glowing terms of his wife. Her beauty and accomplishments are both praised, and even those who went to see her, more to gratify a love of curiosity than anything else, accord her a full meed of praise. Mrs. Bruce before her marriage was Miss Josephine Wilson, daughter of Dr. Wilson, a wealthy resident of Cleveland, Ohio. She graduated with high honors at the Cleveland High School, and speaks French and German fluently. She is of fine presence; her complexion is a rich olive; her hair jet black, silken in quantity and lustrous in hue; eyes are full and dark, and tooth perfect. There is a grace in her movements that any lady might be proud of, and, better than all, there is a quiet dignity in her manner that bespeaks the perfect lady. She resembles closely what we all imagine a beautiful Spanish lady to be, and no one cognizant of her birth could trace any signs of African blood. I have often heard in the South that these signs were unmistakable, and no matter how fair in complexion and how far removed from the negro, the marks of African blood were always visible. Mrs. Bruce puts such theories to flight. Senator Bruce is of the color designated in the South as "saddle colored," and is a 250-pounder.—[Baltimore American, Jan. 25th.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

QUICKEN THE CIRCULATION.

Don't let the blood stagnate in your veins. You can prevent its doing so by increasing its volume and purity, by stimulating the digestive organs, and encouraging assimilation, with that matchless vitalizing agent, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. People not afflicted with any organic or inorganic disease, grow wan and haggard simply because their blood is thin, watery, deficient in nourishing properties and so meagre in quantity that the extremities are very imperfectly supplied with it, and the superficial circulation extremely feeble. Hence the bloodless appearance of the countenance. But when the Bitters are used to enrich and quicken the blood, the rosy hue of health returns to the cheek, the frame acquires substance as well as vigor, the appetite improves, and no digestive qualms interfere either with its gratification or the subsequent tranquility of the stomach.

Henry Ward Beecher has just been to the theatre for the first time in his life. Some people think he ought to have gone before inasmuch as he has had considerable to say about theatres in his day, and others think he should not have gone even now.

The trustees of Boston University have received notice of a cash gift of $12,000 to form the nucleus of a Professorship in the college of Liberal Arts. A lady has also presented $2000 as a nucleus of the fund for the endowment of a Woman's Professorship in the same college.

Mr. La Farge, who has not tried his hand at water-color painting these twenty years perhaps—except to send a body-color study to the exhibition last year—has four pictures at this year's water color exhibition in New York and the slightest work of his adds to the general attractiveness of any array of pictures.

The stockholders of the Old Colony Railroad Company ratified the lease of the Boston, Clinton, Fitchburg and New Bedford Railroad at the meeting yesterday by a stock vote of 37567 in favor to 589 against. The lease is therefore an accomplished fact, the other party to the contract having signified acquiescence almost unanimously.

The testimony in the Reno inquiry Tuesday was somewhat conflicting. One of the "train packers" in Reno's command swears Reno was drunk on the day of the Custer massacre, and an officer of high rank swore there wasn't whiskey enough in the entire command to fuddle Reno. This indicates either a dearth of liquor or that Reno could "carry off" a good deal.

In the discussion about the first eating of tomatoes in this country, which has been going on in the Boston Transcript, a correspondent says he has the date and facts of their being eaten in old Salem in 1798, and cultivated there as a table vegetable. The earliest eating of them at Newport that we can learn of, was in 1814 many years before Mr. Corné who is said to have first eaten them here moved to this city.

A branch of the Potter committee is at work in New York. The first witness examined, Smith M. Weed, who was the author of some of the cipher dispatches, admitted that they were sent as detailed in the Tribune and that the translations were substantially correct. He also testified that an attempt was made to purchase electors in South Carolina and that he telegraphed for $80,000 for that purpose. All of which the country knew before.

Congress has decided not to reduce the army and thereby shown a gleam of wisdom. The time may come when armies will not be needed, but it is not yet. With hordes of savages on our Western border, and an extended line of sea coast, and mobs of semi-savages in all our large cities and in the mines, the time has not come when our Government can rule by the law of love. Our army is very small at best, scarcely sufficient for the capture of a hundred wild Indians until they have murdered scores of our citizens and destroyed vast amounts of property, and it is not good policy to weaken it. The navy is practically abolished and there is all the more need of a show of authority on land.

Gen. Le Duc, the Commissioner of Agriculture, says he will give no more seeds to members of Congress, to be by them sent to their particular friends. He says this method of distribution, which has been the usual one, is pernicious in its tendency, and does not answer the purpose intended. Hereafter he will furnish only agricultural organizations and such individuals as may be disposed to make experiments in furtherance of the object of the Agricultural Department.

On the 23d ultimo Prof. Tyndall delivered a lecture before the Royal Institution in London on the new Electric Light. As an illustration of the great interest on the subject, the audience was very large, embracing many of the best educated people of the city. Dr. Tyndall gave it as his opinion that the Electric Light is certain to be used for public illumination, and for large manufactories; while for domestic purposes he holds that its general adoption is "possible" only.

An anti-tramp bill now before the New York Assembly is based on the New Hampshire law, which has driven the troublesome peripatetic gentry out of the limits of that Commonwealth to a considerable extent. In fact the statute is said to be scarcely ever enforced there, owing to lack of material. Now each town takes care of its own vagrants. The crimes that in years past have filled New Hampshire with horror appear to be now less known, which is probably one gratifying result of this rigid system. And other states will have to adopt similar laws for their own protection.

Rasping the nose to a ruddy glow,
Rasping the temper equally so,
Oh!

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Lo, the poor Conkling whose powerful mind grasps at a Custom House and gets left behind.

Mrs. Hayes, some observant person has discovered, does not object to wearing a handsome gown a great many times. She bought several expensive ones last season, and as they are still good she does not hesitate to wear them repeatedly.

The Princess Louise, it is predicted, will work a notable dress reform among the women of this continent. Her attire is very simple, and she makes no display of jewels. At a recent entertainment at Rideau Hall she wore no ornaments whatever, not even a brooch. Her manners are charming; her guest, whether he be a prime minister or a trembling child, she places instantly at ease. She is a most gentle and kindly young lady.

The Constitution removes a judge from the bench when he is seventy years of age. The Judiciary Committee has reported a bill to abolish the age limit. It has been humiliating in repeated instances to see ten years or more of the best judicial talent of the nation wasted by the absurdity of the present law. REAL ESTATE REVIVING.

A healthier feeling pervades the real estate market this Winter than has been before noticed since the decline in prices began in 1873. The Rhinelander estate contemplates the erection of four hundred houses this Spring in Harlem, and other strong indications point to a general revival of the building trade in the upper part of the city.

The class of dwellings to be erected are mainly of the character of those occupied by people of moderate means and the poorer classes, which tends to show that the elevated roads are fully able to realize the expectations and predictions of the early advocates, who pointed out rapid transit as the only effective means of stemming the tide of migration to Jersey and Long Island, where cheap, comfortable and healthy homes could be had within easy distances of the business centres of the metropolis.

The sales of unimproved property lately have shown good prices, and a return of confidence in real estate as an investment. Recently the Vanderbilts made extensive purchases in the upper districts, paying good prices, and it is now said that the intentions are to improve the property as soon as the spring opens. These purchases are noticeable for the bulk of property bought, and in themselves mean but little; but when taken into connection with a steady demand from small capitalists, it augurs well for coming prosperity.—[N. CHILDREN'S FEET.

"Life long discomfort and sudden death," writes a medical man, "often comes to children through the inattention or carelessness of mothers or nurses. A child should never be allowed to go to sleep with cold feet; the thing to be last attended to is to see that the feet are dry and warm. Neglect of this has often resulted in dangerous attacks of croup, diphtheria, or fatal sore throat. Always on coming from school, on entering the house from a visit or errand in rainy, muddy or damp weather, the child should remove its shoes and the mother should herself ascertain if the stockings are in the least damp. If they are, they should be taken off, the feet held before the fire and rubbed with the hands till perfectly dry, and another pair of stockings and another pair of shoes put on. The reserve shoes and stockings should be kept ready for use at a minute's notice.

At a stated meeting of the New York Historical Society Tuesday evening, Rev. H. F. De Costa read a very interesting paper on the Lenox globe in its relation to the history of American discovery. This globe, Mr. De Costa said, is the oldest of what are called the post Columbian globes, or those made after the discovery of America by Columbus in 1492. It was found twenty-five years ago in Paris, by Mr. Richard M. Hunt, of this city, and by him taken to New York and held till the completion of the Lenox library.

LECTURE ON AMERICAN LIBERTY.

A very interesting lecture was delivered last evening before the Newport Catholic Literary Association by Mr. Lemuel H. Foster, it being the first of a series to be delivered before that flourishing organization. Mr. Foster, who was introduced by the President, Mr. Walsh, first remarked that it was a lamentable fact that comparatively few of our citizens are fully conversant with the principles of the government. In a free government like this, such should not be the case. It is the duty of every citizen who exercises the right of citizenship to familiarize himself with the provisions and objects of our constitution.

American liberty embraces liberty of action, political and civil liberty and liberty to worship God in the manner that to each seems proper. The formation of governments and society was next touched upon. Man in his natural state enjoyed natural and perfect liberty. But when he subjected himself to government he voluntarily parted with a portion of his natural liberty. Step by step, from event to event the speaker brought his hearers to the event that immediately preceded the war of the revolution. The signing of the declaration he declared to be the laying of the corner stone in our temple of liberty. The events of the revolution were briefly narrated, the treaty of peace, the dissentions that arose; the calling of the convention at Philadelphia to revise the articles of confederation with instructions to report to Congress and the states such measures as would render the constitution adequate to the emergencies of government and its preservation. The result of this convention was the present constitution of the United States. And as the constitution is the basis of our liberties; as we rely upon its provisions and the liberal construction and application thereof for our welfare both in peace and war, it is eminently proper its most important features should be discussed by us this evening. The object of the constitution is to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. The provisions tending to promote the objects were then commented upon at length. The powers and duties of Congress; the executive and the judicial powers were also set forth. Trial by jury was pronounced one of the bulwarks of our liberty. Its relationship to the people in the administration of justice was discussed. The writ of habeas corpus, the greatest safeguard of personal liberty, was then touched upon. The right to know upon what charge a person is arrested or imprisoned; the right to be brought into the presence of a proper magistrate and have the cause of detention inquired into and if no legal cause appear for detention, the right to an immediate discharge, are privileges we enjoy and which we cannot be deprived of while the writ of habeas corpus is at our service. The emancipation of the slaves by Abraham Lincoln, the noblest and greatest act of a noble life, the speaker said was the finishing touch to our triumph of liberty. And when Congress by the 13th 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution secured the personal liberty and the right of citizenship to all persons without reference to race, condition or previous condition of servitude, American liberty stood forth an established fact.

At the conclusion of the lecture Mr. Foster was warmly applauded by his interested listeners.

Fall River's council and aldermen are at a dead-lock on the city's school appropriation, the former favoring $75,000 and the latter $85,000.

At the burial of Ashburton Webster at Mansfield, last week, the lid of the casket containing the remains of his grandfather, Daniel Webster, was opened, and his face, the body having been embalmed, was perfectly recognizable.

On the anniversary of Pope Pius IX.'s death, Feb. 7, there will be celebrated in St. Peter's Church at Rome a solemn funeral, at which not only all the Cardinals and prelates in the city will be present, but also all the bishops in the kingdom. The funeral service will take place with closed doors, and only those who have tickets signed by Cardinal Nina will be allowed entrance, as Pope Leo XIII. intends to assist personally at the mass, and himself to give the customary absolution.

The air in the British Houses of Parliament has been supposed the purest attainable by human ingenuity. Hot and cold air are turned in like cold and hot water into a bath, and spray fountains are playing in the corridors to purify the air. It has now been discovered that, close to the principal air-chamber, a cesspool containing the evil gases of hundreds of years has been sending forth its pestilent vapors and laughing all the machinery to scorn. There have been complaints of the stench, but nobody knew whence it arose. One day a carriage broke in the cesspool roof, and the assembled wisdom of England finds that, instead of breathing the best air in the world, it has been breathing the worst.

Two policy holders in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, have filed a petition for an injunction against the company restraining them from issuing any policies while they accept 70 per cent. of the premium in cash and a draft of the policy holder for the remaining 30 per cent. for the first two years, taking such drafts as cash. The petition says "that by treating as cash these drafts, the company has violated its charter and the laws of the state, and also violated the rights of all other policy holders who have paid full rates." It prays that the company be prevented from issuing such policies or paying losses thereon. The argument on the petition will take place the first week in March.

The future of Long Branch since it has newly become more or less dependent upon the results of the new iron-pier experiment is a matter of discussion not only in that town but to people everywhere. The danger of the transformation of the resort into a sort of old-fashioned Coney Island at first disturbed nearly everybody concerned in mercantile or land operations in the town or its neighborhood, but the character of the work and the promises that are made by its projectors have greatly alleviated this fear and the turn towards the popularity of the project is now indisputable. Work on the bridge has been delayed by the winter storms, but much had been done before the weather suspended operations, and the work is about to be renewed with vigor. It is understood that a handsome offer has been made for the exclusive use of the pier for one line of boats, but the plan will probably be to allow any and all boats to land upon the payment of a certain fee per head on the passengers landed, the fare to be 40 cents, and the pier toll 10 cents. Visitors to the pier and sightseers from the land will also be charged a small toll. The cost of the proposed work, including the breakwater, is estimated at $65,000. Notwithstanding the opposition to the pier at the southern end of the corporation, prices of property there have been enhanced by the project, and there is great activity in real estate operations.

"NEWPORT BREEZES."

[From Boston Transcript.]

Newport has a newspaper which solicits no new subscribers; indeed, unlike other newspapers, its readers are limited by editors and publisher, and it depends on no advertisers for support. To take this paper is a privilege not to be bought, and yet it is bright enough and good enough to merit a wide circulation. It is very sectional, and emanates from the "Point." It is edited by a well-known New York lady spending the winter here, and has among its contributors, now and then, some Bostonians of note. It is not printed, only written, and goes into just thirteen families. Its cover bears a picture of "Red Cross" Cottage, the old Sears mansion. * * * *

Ida Lewis has received the appointment of keeper of the harbor light; and a great deal of talk has been made about it, as a token of a grateful country's recognition of her bravery. Secretary Sherman even wrote her a letter to that effect. Ida Lewis's father was a cripple, and while he held the appointment of keeper, Ida tended the lamp till his death, several years ago. Mrs. Lewis secured his position in her name, but Ida was virtually the keeper. For over a dozen years she has been in charge and given perfect satisfaction. Nobody could be found to do the work better, and upon the resignation of her mother, the appointment at her solicitation has fallen to her. And to whom else should it fall? If a perfect fitness for the place, if ten years' satisfactory service is not enough to entitle her to remain where she so well serves the Government, then it is well enough to talk of grateful recognition of her brave deeds. But it occurs to some of us that all this talk about conferring so great a reward upon her as this position is considered is rather absurd under the circumstances. The Government benefits itself by keeping Ida Lewis where she is, and she earns the salary, which is no "gift." Gratitude under such circumstances is very cheap, but Ida Lewis is very happy as mistress of the light, and will be a faithful servant.

That "ball bill" is not paid yet, and there seems to be no immediate prospect of its being settled. The matter which strikes outsiders in rather a comical light—since we made such an ado over our guests and entertained them so magnificently at the time, and cut such a very sorry figure afterward—is not so funny to the proprietors of the Ocean House. They are out just $2800, which takes a very large slice from their last summer's profits, if, indeed, it leaves them anything of them. An attempt has been made to raise the money by subscription, but without much success. Amusing scenes sometimes follow when the canvasser, in all innocence, calls upon a person for contribution who could not obtain a ticket for the ball, and was very sore over it at the time. It is suggested that some of the New Yorkers who were present, and who apologized to the English officers for the presence of so many Newporters (and I overheard these apologies myself) be waited upon. It is really too bad that our hospitality should have had this shadow cast upon it, yet there is a principle involved in this action of taxpayers. * * * * * *

"What Katy Did" has been dramatized by a lady spending the winter here, and it was recently acted at the winter home in Newport of Mrs. Bigelow. Miss Woolsey, ("Susan Coolidge") its author, was present, and she and everybody were charmed with the play made from this popular book, and it will be repeated by and by. A young lady in Boston has very successfully dramatized "Little Women" for home acting, and it is getting to be quite the fashion to assume the characters in favorite books. * * * * *

At a recent tea party here in the English style, a certain cup was tied with a ribbon. Whoever, by chance, had his or her tea served in this cup was obliged to relate an adventure or tell an original story. It is suggested for another tea party that each cup calls for something on the part of the guest who uses it, the particular style of entertainment expected, being designated beforehand by the color of the ribbon. At a "blue" tea party given here once by Julia Ward Howe, each cup-handle was tied with a tiny blue ribbon bow, with exceedingly pretty effect, and very significant of the literary character of the guests.—[Margery Deane.

FALL RIVER.

SUIT AGAINST THE CITY.—A suit for $10,000 damages has been brought against the city of Fall River, by Charles L. Frost, a boy who was hurt some time since by a machine used in the repair of Buffinton street. He was playing with the machine at the time he was hurt. The city government, after a hearing, decided that the claim was not a meritorious one, as it appeared to have been caused by his own negligence.—[News.

IMPORTANT TO PENSIONERS.

The Commissioner of Pensions has promptly issued a circular to all pensioners who will have claims under the recent arrearages law, in which they are distinctly informed that all correspondence in relation thereto will be with the pensioners themselves, and that no claim agent will be recognized in such claim. A letter addressed to the Commissioner of Pensions, Washington, signed by the person who was in receipt of the pension at the date of the passage bill, and two witnesses, in the presence of a magistrate, will be the only application required, and is all that is necessary to adjust every claim. The pension certificate should not be sent to Washington, but must in every case be exhibited to the magistrate who attests to the letter. The Commissioner suggests the following form for the letter:

"To the Commissioner of Pensions:

I, ... a pensioner under pension certificate No.....hereby apply for the arrears due me, under the Act granting Arrears of Pensions, approved January 25, 1879. My postoffice address is—[here insert the name of the postoffice, and if the claimant resides in a city, the name and number of the street and residence must also be given.] Name of claimant.

Two witnesses.

STATE OF——, COUNTY OF——, ss:

Signed in my presence, by .....who is known to me to be the person he describes himself to be, and at the same time he exhibited to me his pension certificate, which is numbered.....

MAGISTRATE'S SIGNATURE."

SUMMER IN SWEDEN.

The Swedish summer is short, and the year has hardly any spring or autumn; but the summer days are very long, and the sun, after setting, sinks only a few degrees under the horizon, filling the whole space during the night with a mystical luminousness which makes even a pig-sty romantic. At midnight you can walk in the garden, and read a letter from your mother, and how singular the letter is! Every word in it has a new meaning, and so has every object around you. The street, the house, the old church, the river, the hills, all look so strange, and yet they look as if you had never before understood their true meaning. The houses do not press the ground with their weight; they float in air like pictures. The river does not push its waves forth through a melancholy fall from one pebble to another; it only turns its hands, rapidly but gently, to catch the image of the stars. The trees do not suck and heave and toil for a bit of existence; no, they breathe, they live, they whisper about paradise.

NEVER TROUBLE TROUBLE TILL TROUBLE TROUBLES YOU.

Of all the maxims, old and new, the one I'd choose to give
To those I wish with all my heart in happiness to live,
To those whose motley path through life with roses I would strew,
Is Never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you.

Take my advice—enjoy the hours and work and play with zest;
Don't run to meet dull care, my friend; you'll find it will be best
To greet with smiles the pleasant glances, and think all friends are true,
And never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you.

This life is short enough, dear friend, so try and make it sweet,
Be this your aim, and fragrant flowers shall grow about your feet;
And mirth shall take the place of grief, and joy the place of rue,
If you'll never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you.

A MEAN ADVANTAGE.

There was a score or more of women gathered together at Mr. Johnson's house. Mr. Johnson is a good-hearted man and a respectable citizen, though he is rather skeptical in some things. The women had just organized "The Foreign Benevolent Society," when Mr. Johnson entered the room. He was at once appealed to to donate a few dollars as a foundation to work on, and then Mrs. Graham added:

"It would be so pleasant, in after years, for you to remember that you gave this society its first dollar and its first kind word."

He slowly opened his wallet, drew out a ten dollar bill, and as the ladies smacked their lips and clapped their hands, he asked:

Is this society organized to aid the poor of foreign countries?"

"Yes—yes—yes!" they chorused.

"And it wants money?"

"Yes—yes."

"Well, now" said Johnson, as he folded the bill in a tempting shape, "There are twenty married women here. If there are fifteen of you who can make oath that you have combed the children's hair this morning, washed the dishes, blacked the cook stove and made the beds, I'll donate ten dollars."

"I have," answered two of the crowd, and the rest said:

"Why, now, Mr. Johnson!"

"If fifteen of you can make oath that your husbands are not wearing socks with holes in their heels, the money is yours," continued the wretch.

"Just hear him!" they exclaimed, each one looking at the other.

"If ten of you have boys without holes in the knees of their pants, this X goes to the society," said Johnson.

"Such a man!" they whispered.

"If there are five pairs of stockings in this room that do not need darning, I'll hand over the money, he went on.

"Mr. Johnson," said Mrs. Graham, with great dignity, "the rules of this society declare that no money shall be contributed except by members, and as you are not a member, I beg that you will withdraw and let us proceed with the routine business."

Olive Logan writes to the Cincinnati Enquirer that she said to Gen. Grant while he was recently in England: "Are you going to be the next President of the United States, General?" "No, I am not," he replied. Then, after a pause, he added: "But I'm going to be their most independent citizen."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

The Royal Baking Powder is a pure Cream of Tartar powder, made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes much farther and works much better than saleratus, soda, or cream of tartar.

☞ Most of the Cream of Tartar of commerce is adulterated with Alum, Terra Alba, etc. Doctors pronounce Alum most dangerous to health; the cost but 2c. a pound. Cream of Tartar over 30c. The Royal Baking Powder is recommended for its wholesomeness by such eminent chemists as Dr. Mott, New York; Dr. S. Dana Hayes, Boston. Sold only in cans. All Grocers.

☞ BAKING POWDER should never be sold in paper packages, as it becomes stale and deteriorated upon exposure to the atmosphere.

STEAM HEATING.

THE GAS LIGHT COMPANY have added to their Gas Fitting Department the business of heating buildings by steam. The cost of steam apparatus has hitherto proved a bar to its general introduction; but at present, ordinary houses can be fitted with steam appliances for a small advance on the cost of a furnace. The superior healthfulness of steam heat, its admirable distribution, economy of fuel, and perfect self-regulation are points in its favor, which far outweigh the consideration of a small additional expense for the apparatus. Parties building, or desiring to change their mode of heating, are invited to apply at the office of the company, and obtain estimates of cost. Cellars low low to admit a furnace can have our boiler set up in them.

INSURANCE
AGAINST LOSS BY FIRE
CAUSED BY
ACCIDENT, INCENDIARISM, LIGHTNING
Or any Other Cause.

I REPRESENT the oldest company in America, and also the largest company in the United States, together with other standard American and European institutions. The Ætna of Hartford alone has paid over $45,000,000 in losses, and has now $7,000,000 assets in hand.

Insurance in such companies, with ample means, and an established reputation for fair dealing, is worth much more than in any of the numerous weaklings that totter along for a while and then go down. About fifty such companies have failed during the last year, and as many others are on the way to ruin.

The rates in these first-class companies are no higher than in the small and doubtful concerns.

Firm property taken very low for three or five years.

All losses settled at this office. For terms call on, or address by mail the undersigned at the office of this paper. L. D. DAVIS.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1879.

A Thrilling Incident.

In the winter of 1870 I had occasion to go from Green Bay to Chicago, on the N. W. Railway. At Oshkosh we were joined by a delegation of lawyers, on their way to Madison, the capitol, to attend the Legislature, then in session. They were all men of more than usual intellect, and of exceptional character. Two were ex-judges of the Circuit Court, and one I had seen chairman of the Young Men's Christian Association. The party found seats near together, and after the salutations were over, and the news duly discussed, they began to look about for means to while away the time. After awhile some one proposed a game of cards. No sooner said than done. Two seats were turned apart so as to face each other, a cushion improvised for a table, and three of our lawyers, including the chairman of the Young Men's Christian Association, and a Chicago runner, on good terms with them, were soon deep in the mysteries of a game of euchre.

I was surprised to see a Christian gentleman and judges of law equity, leaders of society, makers of public sentiment, lawgivers for a great state, directors of public morals, supposed to be public exemplars of all that is good, and guides to the young, thus setting publicly their seal of approval to a most dangerous and evil practice. To be sure, they played for stakes no higher than the cigars for the party. But it seems to me that, in the eyes of all discreet persons, this does not change the act nor lessen the danger of its example, but rather hightens it; as from the less to the greater is the invariable course of crime. But I did not intend to moralize on paper, but was about to say that while I was filled with such thoughts as these, one of the party grew tired of the game, and our remaining judge was invited to take his place. I saw the blood mount in an honest blush of disapproval, to his manly face, and he hesitated and drew back. But the game had become interesting, and his excited companions urged him. "Come judge, take a hand," they cried, "we can't go on without you." So the judge slowly rose from his seat, inwardly condemning the act, as I evidently saw, and stepping forward took a seat among the players, and the game went on.

I noticed an old lady in a seat to the rear of the players, who had got on board at Menasha, I believe. Gray and bent with age, she had sat abashed, and, with eyes closed, seemed asleep most of the time, until the train, stopping at Oshkosh took on board the company of lawyers. She then underwent a change, and became greatly interested in the company, looking often from one to another, as if she recognized them all, or was trying to recall their faces. When the game of cards was started she became very restless, would hitch uneasily about in her seat, take up the hem of her faded apron and nervously bite the threads. Once or twice I thought she wiped her eyes under her "Shaker bonnet," but could not tell. She acted so strange, that I became more interested in her than in the players, and watched her closely. She got up after a while and tottered forward, holding on to the seats as she passed. She brushed against Judge ——— in passing, but he had become interested in the game and did not notice her. Reaching the water tank at last, she drank a cup of water, and took a seat near the door, with her back to the players. But she did not long remain there; rising again with difficulty, she tottered back to her former seat, but reaching the players, she paused directly in front of them, and now, greatly excited, threw back her bonnet from her face and looked around at the company. Her action at once arrested their attention, and pausing in their play, they all looked up inquiringly.

Gazing directly in the face of Judge ———, she said in a tremulous voice. "Do you know me Judge ——?"

"No, mother, I don't know you," said the Judge, pleasantly. "Where have we met?"

"My name is Smith," said she; "I was with my poor boy three days, off and on, in the court room in Oshkosh, when he was tried for—for—for robbing somebody, and you are the same man that sent him to prison for ten years, and he died there last June."

All faces were now sober, and the passengers began to gather around and stand up, all over the car, to listen and see what was going on. She did not give the judge time to answer her, but becoming more and more excited, she went on: "He was a good boy if you did send him to jail. He helped us clear the farm, and when father was taken sick and died he done all the work, and he was getting along right smart, till he took to going to town and got to playing keards and drinking, and then, somehow he didn't like to work after that, but used to stay out often till mornin', and he'd sleep so late, and I couldn't wake him when I knowned he'd been out so late the night afore. And then the farm kinder run down, and then we lost the team; one of them got killed when he'd been to town one awful cold night. He staid late, and I suppose they got cold standin' out, and got skeered and broke loose, and run most home, but run agin the fence and a stake run into one of 'em, and when we found it next mornin' it was dead, and the other was standin' under the shed. —And so after awhile he coaxed me to let him sell the farm and buy a house and lot in the village, and he'd work at carpenter work.—And so I did, as we couldn't do nothin' on the farm. But he grew worse than ever, and after awhile he couldn't get any work, and wouldn't do anything but gamble and drink all the time. I used to do everything I could to get him to quit and be a good industrious boy agin, but he used to get mad after awhile, and once he struck me, and in the mornin' I found that he had taken what little money there was left of the farm, and had run off. After that I got along as well as I could, cleanin' house for folks and washin', but I didn't hear nothin' of him for four or five years, but when he got arrested and was took up to Oshkosh for trial, he wrote to me."

By this time there was not a dry eye in the car, and the cards had disappeared. The old lady herself was weeping silently and speaking in snatches. But recovering herself she went on.

"But what could I do? I sold the house and lot to get money to hire a lawyer, and I believe he is here somewhere," looking around. "Oh, yes, there he is, Mr. ——," pointing to lawyer ——— who had not taken part in the play. "And this is the man I am sure, who argued agin him," pointing to Mr. ———, the district attorney. "Judge ——— sent him to prison for ten years; s'pose it was right, for the poor boy told me that he did really rob the bank, but he must have been drunk, for they had all been playing keards most all night, and drinking. But, oh! dear, it seems to be kinder as though if he hadn't got to playing keards he might a been alive yet. But when I used to tell him it was wrong and bad to play, he used to say, 'Why, mother, everybody plays now. I never bet only for the candy, or the cigars or something like that.' And when we heard that the young folks played keards, down to Mr. Culver's donation party, and that 'Squire Ring was going to have a billiard table for the young folks to play on at home, I couldn't do nothing at all with him. We used to think it was awful to do that way when I was young, but it jist seems to me as if everybody nowadays was going wrong into something or other. But may be it isn't right for me to talk to you, Judge, in this way, but it jist seemed to me as if the very sight of them keards would kill me, Judge; I thought if you only knew how I felt, you wouldn't play so; and then to think, right here before all those young folks. Maybe, Judge, you don't know how young folks, especially boys, look up to such as you; and then I can't help thinking that maybe if them that ought to know better than to do so, and them as higher larnt, and all that, wouldn't set sich examples, my poor Tom would be alive and carin g for his poor old mother; but now there ain't none of my family left but me and my poor little gran'child, my dead darter's little girl, and we are going to stop with my brother in Illinoy."

Tongue of man or angel never preached a more eloquent sermon than that gray, withered old lady, trembling with old age, excitement and fear that she was doing wrong. I can't recall half she said, as she, poor, lone, beggared widow, stood before those noble looking men, and pleaded the cause of the rising generation.

The look they bore as she poured forth her sorrowful tale was indescribable. To say that they looked like criminals at the bar would be a faint description. I can imagine how they felt. The old lady tottered to her seat and taking her little grandchild in her lap, hid her face on her neck. The little one stroked her gray hair with one hand and said, "don't cry, gramma, don't cry, gramma." Eyes unused to weeping were red for many a mile on that journey. And I can hardly believe that one who witnessed the scene over touched a card again. It is but just to say, that when the passengers came to themselves they generously responded to the Judge, who, hat in hand, silently passed through her little audience.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse,

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the patent office.

EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents."

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1849, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly,

GEORGE DRAPER.

PENNSYLVANIA

RAILROAD.

Great Through Line

AND

UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

The attention of the traveling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In stands confessedly at the head of American railways. The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

CONSTRUCTION AND EQUIPMENT

The Safety Appliances

in use on this line well illustrate the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM of SAFETY SIGNALS,

Janney Coupler Buffer and Platform,

THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH,

AND THE

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.
